English

English curriculum intent

We believe the prominence of the English language is undeniable in both education and society. Our aim is for all children to attain a high-quality education in English that equips pupils with the ability to express themselves verbally and in writing, facilitating effective communication of their thoughts and feelings. Furthermore, their adeptness in reading and listening enables seamless interactions with others. Especially through reading, our pupils are presented with opportunities for holistic growth-cultural, emotional, intellectual, social, and spiritual. In this developmental journey, literature assumes a pivotal role. Reading not only enables the acquisition of knowledge but also the expansion of existing understanding. Proficiency in all language skills is indispensable for complete participation in society. We aim for our pupils to attain fluency and confidence in speaking, reading, and writing in order to gain full societal engagement.

Through our study of English, we aim to ensure all pupils:

- read easily, fluently and with good understanding
- develop the habit of reading widely and often, for both pleasure and information
- acquire a wide vocabulary, an understanding of grammar and knowledge of linguistic conventions for reading, writing and spoken language
- appreciate our rich and varied literary heritage
- write clearly, accurately and coherently, adapting their language and style in and for a range of contexts, purposes and audiences
- use discussion in order to learn; they should be able to elaborate and explain clearly their understanding and ideas
- are competent in the arts of speaking and listening, making formal presentations, demonstrating to others and participating in debate.

Implementation

Curriculum structure & sequencing

We structure our English curriculum by using the National Curriculum. This allows all our children, in every year group, to have a full and in depth understanding of spoken language, reading, writing and spelling, punctuation and grammar. We use the Pathways to Write scheme to support planning and sequencing from Reception to Year 6. For reading, from Reception to Year 3 we follow a guided reading approach following Floppy's phonics and from Year 4 to Year 6 we follow a share reading approach using the Pathways to Read scheme.

Content & concepts

Through using high-quality fiction and non-fiction texts, immersing children in vocabulary rich learning environments and high quality first teaching we develop reading fluency and comprehension with a focus on key reading strategies and skills; develop grammar and punctuation knowledge and understanding to use and apply across the wider curriculum; explore the writing structure and features of different genres, identify the purpose and audience; plan and write an initial piece of writing with a clear context and purpose before evaluating the effectiveness of writing by editing and redrafting. To develop writing skills, writing is modelled, shared and celebrated. Handwriting is taught regularly and high expectations of presentation and accuracy of written work is embedded not only in English lessons, but across the curriculum. In addition to daily English lessons, children excel in early reading through the use of the Floppy's Phonics programme from Early Years and through KS1 and Year 3 and continue to develop a range of reading skills. This leads onto the use of the Accelerated Reader from Year 4 to Year 6.

Enrichment and personal development

At Boughton Heath, children have a range of enrichment opportunities. Pupils take part in public speaking competitions, World Book Day, themed writing projects such as No Outsiders. Children's love for reading is promoted through key stage assemblies, daily story time within classes and through book and story clubs. Additionally we have an annual book fair which is well attended and profits are shared with the school to purchase new books for class libraries.

Assessment and next steps

We assess English in a variety of ways, giving pupils the opportunity to showcase their spoken language, reading and writing skills acquired. Pupil's are assessed within lessons and at the end of units. Within guided reading sessions and phonics lessons children are regularly assessed and any gaps in learning are addressed through targeted interventions. From Year 2 to Year 6, children complete a termly computerised reading assessment (STAR). Individual target cards ensure pupils received the required support to move forward. Writing units teach skills, building in opportunities for independent writing which are assessed and lead to end of term judgements.

English in Early Years Foundation Stage

In addition to the area of Literacy within the Early Years Foundation Stage, English forms important parts of various aspects of the EYFS framework. The very nature of English and its importance at an early age means that the skills children learn are prominent across all seven areas. However, English is taught within the teaching and learning of the following areas of EYFS:

- Communication and Language,
- Literacy

Through the study of English in early years, the foundation for children's overall learning and development lies in the development of their spoken language. Early back-and-forth interactions serve as the building blocks for language and cognitive growth. The quality and quantity of conversations in a language-rich environment, where practitioners comment on and echo children's interests, play a crucial role. Actively engaging children in diverse reading experiences, including stories, non-fiction, rhymes, and poems, and providing ample opportunities for them to use new words, fosters language development. Additionally, cultivating a love for reading, encompassing both language comprehension and word reading dimensions, is essential for a child's lifelong learning journey. Writing involves transcription (spelling and handwriting) and composition (articulating ideas and structuring them in speech, before writing).

Communication and Language

- Understand how to listen carefully and why listening is important.
- Learn new vocabulary.
- Use new vocabulary through the day.
- Ask questions to find out more and to check they understand what has been said to them.
- Articulate their ideas and thoughts in well-formed sentences.
- Connect one idea or action to another using a range of connectives.
- Describe events in some detail.
- Use talk to help work out problems and organise thinking and activities, and to explain how things work and why they might happen.
- Develop social phrases
- Engage in story times
- Listen to and talk about stories to build familiarity and understanding.
- Retell the story, once they have developed a deep familiarity with the text, some as exact repetition and some in their own words.
- Use new vocabulary in different contexts.
- Listen carefully to rhymes and songs, paying attention to how they sound.
- Learn rhymes, poems and songs.
- Engage in non-fiction books.
- Listen to and talk about selected non-fiction to develop a deep familiarity with new knowledge and vocabulary.

Links to Development Matters (continued)

Literacy

- Read individual letters by saying the sounds for them.
- Blend sounds into words, so that they can read short words made up of known letter– sound correspondences.
- Read some letter groups that each represent one sound and say sounds for them.
- Read a few common exception words matched to the school's phonic programme.
- Read simple phrases and sentences made up of words with known letter–sound correspondences and, where necessary, a few exception words.
- Re-read these books to build up their confidence in word reading, their fluency and their understanding and enjoyment.
- Form lower-case and capital letters correctly.
- Spell words by identifying the sounds and then writing the sound with letter/s.
- Write short sentences with words with known sound-letter correspondences using a capital letter and full stop.
- Re-read what they have written to check that it makes sense.

Links to Early Learning Goals

Communication and Language

Listening, attention and understanding

- Listen attentively and respond to what they hear with relevant questions, comments and actions when being read to and during whole class discussions and small group interactions,
- Make comments about what they have heard and ask questions to clarify their understanding,
- Hold conversation when engaged in back-and-forth exchanges with their teacher and peers

Speaking

- Participate in small group, class and one-to-one discussions, offering their own ideas, using recently introduced vocabulary,
- Offer explanations for why things might happen, making use of recently introduced vocabulary from stories, non-fiction, rhymes and poems when appropriate;
- Express their ideas and feelings about their experiences using full sentences, including use of past, present and future tenses and making use of conjunctions, with modelling and support from their teacher .

Literacy

Comprehension

- Demonstrate understanding of what has been read to them by retelling stories and narratives using their own words and recently introduced vocabulary;
- Anticipate – where appropriate – key events in stories;
- Use and understand recently introduced vocabulary during discussions about stories, non-fiction, rhymes and poems and during role-play.

Word Reading

- Say a sound for each letter in the alphabet and at least 10 digraphs;
- Read words consistent with their phonic knowledge by sound-blending;
- Read aloud simple sentences and books that are consistent with their phonic knowledge, including some common exception words.

Writing

- Write recognisable letters, most of which are correctly formed;
- Spell words by identifying sounds in them and representing the sounds with a letter or letters;
- Write simple phrases and sentences that can be read by others.

Inclusion within English

We are an inclusive school and as such, do not believe in narrowing the curriculum for any learner. Our curriculum is designed with inclusion of all at heart, and our curriculum intent is therefore the same for all children.

However we are mindful that there are an abundance of factors which need to be considered in order for all learners to be able to access learning according to their individual needs; perhaps none more so than for those learners with Special Educational Needs and Disabilities (SEND).

Therefore, whilst our curriculum intent is the same for all learners; our implementation of the curriculum may well look different for different groups of pupils. Teachers will plan, scaffold, challenge and embed learning through activities which are adapted to meet children's needs – we call this adapted implementation. This is to ensure that our curriculum can be met by all within an inclusive environment, mindful and responsive to children's needs.

We use guidance set out within the NASEN teacher handbook to assist us in amending our implementation within English. Examples of this, though not an exhaustive list, can be seen to the right. Note, these are suggestions of what may be implemented but all teachers will amend according to learner need.

Consistent use of resources, i.e., use of the same sound mats across all curriculum areas.

Reading books should match pupil's phonic knowledge until they can read familiar words speedily and unfamiliar words accurately.

Phonics is taught discretely, daily. Further opportunities are provided every day for pupils to practice what they have been taught.

Follow a model writing, shared writing and finally independent writing system..

New vocabulary should be planned for and taught in context. Model using new words in a sentence and give learners time to practise them in context.

A working wall that is used and updated daily, alongside lessons that includes HFWs, GPCs, key skills, and new vocabulary.

English Curriculum: Spoken Language

Boughton Heath Academy

Progression in Speaking and Listening

Literacy lessons are driven by a focused text. Within lessons, speaking and listening activities are planned in; this could be through questions and answers, discussions – using techniques such as a debate, which allow children to think about different perspectives, or to think about reasons behind events in a text. Additionally, drama activities are used which allow children to explore thoughts and feelings of a character. Speaking and listening tasks are planned throughout and within lessons to maximise pupil engagement and to encourage deep thought and preparation which feed into children’s written work. As well as during Literacy, speaking and listening opportunities are provided during other areas of the curriculum and other school activities. Presenting and speaking during public speaking competitions, class assemblies, school plays and special assemblies e.g. Christmas and Harvest all provide children with chances to share their work and speak in front of large crowds of pupils, staff and parents. As children work their way through the school, there are a myriad of responsibilities they can take on, such as school council, playleaders, etc which all develop children’s confidence when speaking in front of others.

English Curriculum: Reading

We believe fluent readers (see model below) can read accurately, at an appropriate speed without great effort (automaticity), and with appropriate stress and intonation (prosody). A fluent reading style can support comprehension because pupils' limited cognitive resources are freed from focusing on word recognition and can be redirected towards comprehending the text. For this reason, fluency is a bridge from word recognition to comprehension. The goal of teaching reading is to enable children to comprehend written texts. To do this, pupils need to build both word reading and language comprehension skills. The 'reading comprehension house' (see right) illustrates that word reading and language comprehension are underpinned by a number of other building blocks of reading. These component parts build on one another and connect together as children learn to read. The left-hand side of the house illustrates that to become proficient at word reading, children need to build an awareness of the sound structures of language (phonological awareness) and knowledge of how language is represented in writing (print knowledge). This will support pupils to learn how to decode: translating written words into the sounds of spoken language. Skilled readers begin to recognise some full words automatically after repeated encounters with them and learn to read with fluency. The right-hand side of the house illustrates that to build strong language comprehension skills, pupils need to develop an understanding of grammar and syntax and build up a wide-ranging vocabulary. They will also need to learn how to make inferences (using information in a text to understand things that are implied rather than explicitly stated) and monitor their own comprehension as they read. Additionally, pupils need to learn about different text structures and genres.

Love for Reading

We aim to create a love of reading. We want children to read for enjoyment, understanding and knowledge. Therefore we encourage children to develop their own preference for books and share and recommend the books that they read. Alongside books that are matched to phonic and reading ability, children take home love for reading books that they chosen themselves. Parents and carers may have to support children to read these or even read these books to them. We believe it is important that children develop independence and curiosity for books.

Home reading

Children in Reception to Year 3 take books matched to their phonic knowledge following the coloured book band systems. From Year 4, all pupils who are ready, are placed on the Accelerated Reader programme and regularly assessed so the books they are reading are matched to their ZPD range which corresponds to their reading ability.

Phonics

Fundamentally, reading requires two skills; word reading and comprehension. We begin to develop 'Word reading' through Floppy's Phonics as a whole school approach. We deliver a mastery approach where children keep up with the programme of study and regular assessment identifies any children who require additional interventions. Phonemes studied are shared with parents on See Saw each week who can then practice and gain involvement in their child's journey of learning to read.

Guided Reading

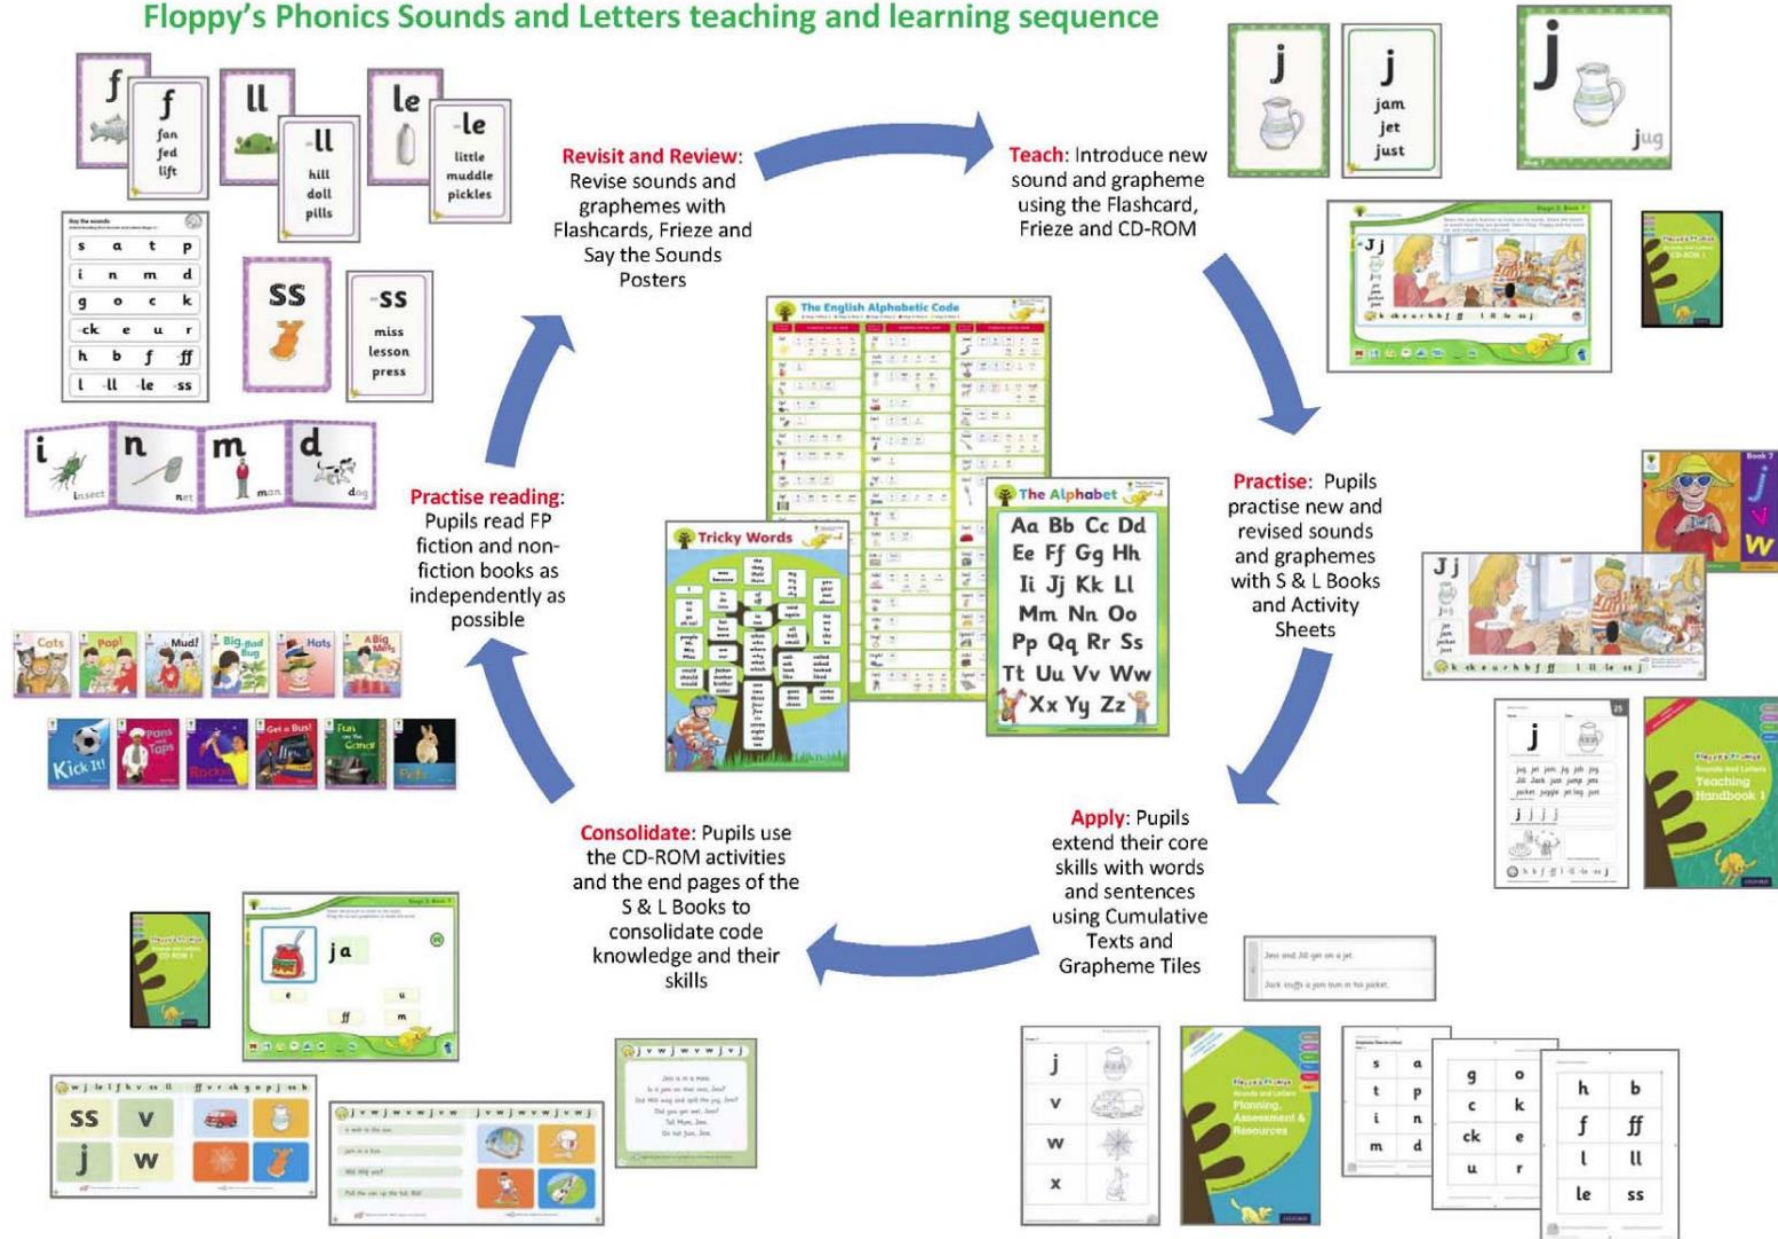

Guided Reading is introduced in reception once children are secure on the code in books 1-2. Sessions take place in small groups and involve a walk through book followed by individual reading whilst the teacher listens in. Teachers follow the reading skills progression documents for their year group to plan comprehension questions. Teachers record how each child has read and answered questions in their feedback book which informs assessment judgements. Children practise reading their guided reading book frequently with focused activities, related to the book, throughout the week when they are not part of a guided reading session.

Shared Reading

Once children enter Year Four they take part in shared reading sessions planned using The Literacy Company's Pathways to Read. One whole class shared reading lesson is taught per week with time after that lesson for a more bespoke grouped read with a smaller number of pupils. In the shared and grouped read, there is a clear teaching focus with the opportunity to master key reading skills in the session and other sessions in the half term. The teacher is able to bespoke the grouped sessions to meet the needs of children's reading abilities to ensure progress. There are follow on reading tasks to enable pupils to evidence the skills they have mastered independently.

English Curriculum: Handwriting

Handwriting

Handwriting is a skill which, like reading and spelling, affects written communication across the curriculum. Children must be able to write with ease, speed and legibility. Cursive handwriting teaches children to join letters and words as a series of flowing movements and patterns. The development of this fluid style when mastered allows children to apply their energy into the content of their writing as opposed to the formation of the letters themselves. Handwriting skills are taught regularly and systematically throughout the school.

We follow the four stages of handwriting described to the right. Children begin in Reception mark making, learning the shapes and lines, pushes and pulls of the pencil needed to form letters. Pupils learn to sit correctly at the table and develop a tripod grip. At stage two, children learn to form all lower case and capital letters correctly in addition to number formation. Children then learn the lead in lines, horizontal and vertical joins at stage three. Finally, at stage four, we are looking for children confidently and fluently joining their handwriting across the curriculum.

Boughton Heath Academy - Stages of Handwriting

Teaching and Learning	Assessment
Stage One - Pre-handwriting Patterns <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Mark making. • Children learn the shapes and lines, pushes and pulls of the pencil which combine to form letters. • Children learn to sit correctly at the table. • Children develop a tripod grip. 	Does the child have sufficient pencil control to begin to form letters? Demonstrate the following then ask the child to imitate the following scribbles free-hand: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ✓ Horizontal lines left to right ✓ Straight scribble ✓ Round and round scribble ✓ A diagonal cross ✓ A horizontal/vertical cross ✓ An anti-clockwise circle ✓ A clockwise circle ✓ A vertical line in a downward direction Is the child using an effective pencil grip?
Stage Two - single letter and number formation. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Family One - Start at the top - l, t, I, j, u, y. • Family Two - Start at the top and no lifting - r, n, m, h, b, p. • Family Three - starts like a curly c - c, o, a, d, g, q, s, f, e. • Family Four - diagonal letters - v, w, z, x, k. Capital letter formation: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Frog jump capitals: F, E, D, P, B, R, N, M. • Starting corner capitals: H, K, L, U, V, X, Y, Z. • Centre starters: C, O, Q, G, S, A, I, T, J. 	Ask the child to write this sentence: The quick brown fox jumps over the lazy dog. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ✓ Has the child formed all of the letters correctly? ✓ Are the ascenders tall? ✓ Are the small letters small? ✓ Are the descenders below the line? ✓ Is there sufficient space between each letter? ✓ Is there sufficient space between each word? Ask the child to write this sentence in capital letters: THE QUICK BROWN FOX JUMPS OVER THE LAZY DOG <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ✓ Has the child formed all of the letters correctly?
Stage Three - lead in lines, horizontal and vertical joins. Stage Four - joining. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Use the diagonal and horizontal strokes that are needed to join letters fluently. • Increase the legibility, consistency and quality of handwriting. • Joined handwriting increases in speed. • Joined handwriting used across the curriculum. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ✓ Is the child using joined writing in all writing tasks? ✓ Can the child comment on their own handwriting? ✓ Can the child write legibly with speed? ✓ Does the child understand that different tasks require different levels of speed?

Spoken Language

Literacy lessons are driven by a focused text. Within lessons, speaking and listening activities are planned in; this could be through questions and answers, discussions – using techniques such as a debate, which allow children to think about different perspectives, or to think about reasons behind events in a text. Additionally, drama activities are used which allow children to explore thoughts and feelings of a character. Speaking and listening tasks are planned throughout and within lessons to maximise pupil engagement and to encourage deep thought and preparation which feed into children's written work.

Spelling, Punctuation and Grammar (SPAG)

Spelling, Punctuation and Grammar strategies are taught explicitly once a week in addition to the spelling lessons and SPAG incorporated into literacy lessons. Pupils are taught key rules and strategies with opportunities to analyse how other writers have applied these skills to model texts and extracts in order for our pupils to apply these skills independently and effectively to their own writing. Pupils are taught to recognise which strategies they can use to improve their own spelling. They are encouraged to apply learnt strategies to their independent writing.

In Reception and KS1, children learn spelling largely through their daily phonic sessions. In KS2 children are taught spelling through discrete sessions each week, following the Pathways to Spell scheme. The teaching and learning of grammar and punctuation is embedded within the English teaching sequence. This means, grammar and punctuation skills and knowledge are built into a sequence of preparatory work which is then applied within longer pieces of writing during the teaching sequence. As they become more confident, children are encouraged to check spellings using a dictionary and to expand their vocabulary using a thesaurus.

Writing

We use Pathways to Write to drive our writing curriculum. This aligns with Pathways to Read ensuring meaningful links for our pupils with texts that are used across Literacy, Humanities and Science.

Children learn about the purpose, structure and language features of a variety of writing genres. The teaching of writing and use of compositional skills are grounded in a rich experience of reading and reflecting on quality written texts. The texts are often used as models for writing. When appropriate, cross-curricular links are made.

Children are given regular opportunities for telling, retelling and refining texts as a preparation for writing. We encourage the process of planning, saying, writing, checking and editing writing.

Planned teaching sequences include shared, guided and independent writing. We prepare children for the transition from shared to independent writing by use of teacher demonstrations-‘modelling’ writing, teacher scribing and supported composition.

Extended writing opportunities are regularly planned for across the curriculum. This encourages the children to be creative and flexible with their writing skills, applying what has previously been taught; e.g. writing an explanation of how a volcano erupts.

Pathways to Write follows a mastery approach to learning with 3 keys: Gateway, Mastery and Feature.

Gateway keys are the skills that should have been previously taught.

Mastery keys are the main skills that will be focused on throughout the unit.

Feature keys are the features of the writing genre that is the outcome for each unit. Each set of Feature keys has the same structure –vocabulary of the genre, how sentences and tenses are used and the overall structure of each one.

Assessment within Phonics

We place great emphasis on the importance of assessing children's knowledge, understanding and skillset within Phonics.

Teachers observe and work with the children on a daily basis, assessing their developing knowledge and skills as a natural part of their teaching.

Letter/s-sound Correspondences assessment sheets are used for ongoing assessment of letter/s-sound correspondences. They are designed to record each child's code knowledge from print-to-sound (reading sub-skill) and sound-to-print (spelling sub-skill) after each couple of books at each level.

Reading and Spelling assessment sheets are used to assess the children's progress in both reading and spelling. These assessments are used to provide baseline early assessments; for periodic snapshots across whole classes; for assessing each child diagnostically on code knowledge, capacity to blend and spell, and the comprehension of discrete words, at various points in the teaching programme. Use of the tests will inform teachers to the needs of individual children and show progress over time.

Level 1+
Assessment after Books 1 and 2

Reading sub-skill: Point to the graphemes and ask the child to say the sounds. (Complementary resources: Grapheme Tiles and Say the Sounds Posters)
Spelling sub-skill: Say the sounds and ask the child to point to the correct graphemes. (Complementary resources: Grapheme Tiles and Say the Sounds Posters)

Use a separate sheet to record each child's knowledge of letter/s-sound correspondences, both from print-to-sound and from sound-to-print, next to the graphemes.

Additional notes:

Floppy's Phonics Reading and Spelling assessment

Reading assessment: Ask the child to say the sounds for the graphemes down the left column, followed by reading the columns of words - short words first. Some graphemes represent different sounds so you may want to ask the child to look at the words to work out what the grapheme represents.

Name, date and complete a second copy of the assessment for record keeping. Stop the test as necessary. Repeat at a later date and date and annotate the record copy with a different coloured pen to note progress. Note that some children may use their preference to say easy-to-read words. Which children may not know what some of the words mean, they can still attempt to read them. Many children may automatically ask you what the unknown words mean.

Spelling assessment: Say the sounds of the graphemes and/or the list of words yourself - short words first. Provide the focus word in the context of a simple spoken sentence. If the meaning is ambiguous, the children can write the graphemes and words on a separate sheet to note both spelling ability and scores for individual and whole class record keeping. Spelling is a harder skill and the use of the tests for spelling may fall behind the use for reading assessment.

Level 1+
Books 1 & 2

Hold the child's copy back to reveal the focus column.
Read down the columns - graphemes first, then short words, medium length words and longer words.
Name, date and annotate on a second record keeping copy.

Additional comments:

Making judgements – formative assessment

When delivering lessons; teachers record notes, comments and reflections they feel pertinent to the formative assessment of their teaching and learning of Phonics, recording these in their feedback files (see right). Such feedback is then delivered at the start of the following lesson, in order for children to recap prior learning undertaken before building upon this; as well as to give them opportunities to address misconceptions develop greater understanding of concepts and what has been taught.

Making judgements – summative assessment

With the end of phase assessment in mind, teachers will form a summative assessment for each child within a particular phase. This will be combined and inform teachers when making their reading judgement for each child.

2023 national curriculum assessments

Key stage 1

Phonics screening check

In the summer term of Year One, children will take part in a phonics screen. This check confirms that all children have learned phonic decoding to an age-appropriate standard. Children who have not reached this level receive extra support to ensure they can improve their decoding skills, and will then have the opportunity to retake the phonics screening check in Year Two.

Assessment within Reading

We place great emphasis on the importance of assessing children's knowledge, understanding and skillset within Reading.

When assessing Reading, it is first essential to clearly articulate two important areas:

1. Word reading and within this we assess accuracy, automaticity and prosody.
2. Language comprehension, including understanding of grammar, syntax and vocabulary.

At Boughton Heath Academy, we follow the national curriculum and use these statements within each year group to assess. Each half term teachers focus on a group of learning targets and build a picture of each child's performance against these targets.

Year 4	Reading - Word reading	Reading - comprehension	Retrieval and summarise (2b and 2c)	Inference and prediction (2d and 2e)	Structure and organisation (2f)	Language choice (2a and 2g)	Make comparisons and identify viewpoints (2h)

Making judgements – summative assessment

With the half term's learning targets in mind, teachers will form a summative assessment for each child at the end of each half term. This will be either, working towards / working at / working above the expected standard.

Renaissance
Star Reading

Children will complete a Star assessment test at the end of each term which will give them a standardised score. A triangulation of this result alongside end of half term assessments and pupil's work during reading lessons is used by teachers to make a judgement at the end of each term for each child.

Assessment within Writing

We place great emphasis on the importance of assessing children's knowledge, understanding and skillset within Writing.

When assessing Writing, it is first essential to clearly articulate the important areas to assess:

At Key Stage One:

1. Composition, including planning, drafting, evaluating, editing, proofreading, applying vocabulary, grammar and punctuation.
2. Transcription, including spelling and handwriting.

At Key Stage Two:

1. Composition, including planning, drafting, evaluating, editing, proofreading, structuring and organising texts, applying vocabulary, grammar and punctuation.
2. Transcription, including spelling and handwriting.

At Boughton Heath Academy, we follow the national curriculum and use these statements within each year group to assess. Each half term teachers focus on a group of learning targets and build a picture of each child's performance against these targets. Children have their own target card with an additional personalised target.

Making judgements – formative assessment

When delivering lessons; teachers record notes, comments and reflections they feel pertinent to the formative assessment of their teaching and learning of Writing, recording these in their feedback files (see right). Such feedback is then delivered at the start of the following lesson, in order for children to recap prior learning undertaken before building upon this; as well as to give them opportunities to address misconceptions develop greater understanding of concepts and what has been taught.

Making judgements – summative assessment

With the half term's learning targets in mind, teachers will form a summative assessment for each child at the end of each half term. This will be either, working towards / working at / working above the expected standard.

At the end of each term children's writing will be assessed using independent pieces of writing and they will be given a judgement on a ranked list, see example opposite. This gives a clear picture of children's progress throughout the year.
